PROJECTS

Following the disappearance of the congregation of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, it is no secret that the continued presence of the foreclosed building has continued to keep locals on edge. Following what many consider to be a worryingly quick investigation on the part of the Midwich Police Department, the Church has been locked up and foreclosed since. It has been two years since then and many in the community are calling for it to finally be demolished after the recent disappearances. Many believe that the members of the congregation were involved in devil worship before their disappearance, leading locals to believe the church itself has brought evil into Midwich.

HEADLINER

With the string of recent disappearances, locals begin to call for the Church of Saint Michael to be demolished.
